High Congressional Leaders Praise Brehm

Ohio's Two Senators Take Stand

Local Congressman Denies 'Kickbacks'

Sens. Taft and Bricker, Ohio Republicans, appeared in federal court in Washington, D. C., Wednesday as character witnesses for Dr. Walter Brehm congressman from this district who is accused of accepting salary "kickbacks" from his office staff.

Brehm himself returned to the witness stand to finish his testimony denying that he took political contributions from two former clerks in violation of the Corrupt Practices Act.

Taft and Bricker, along with House Democratic Leader McCormack of Mass., House Republican Leader Martin of Mass., and Rep. Hadeck, (R) Ind., all praised Brehm as a "law abiding citizen."

The appearance of McCormack, a Democrat, came as a surprise since Brehm has charged that the accusations against him were inspired by his political feud with the Democratic machine in his home district.

McCormack testified that Brehm's reputation for truth and honesty was "excellent."

TAFT PRAISED Brehm, and said he considered the veteran congressman's reputation as a law abiding citizen "excellent, without question."

Brehm returned to the stand after the testimony of the congressmen and continued his denial that he ever accepted salary "kickbacks" from two former women clerks in his office.

He testified that Mrs. Clara Soliday, who claims she gave him $7,200 of her salary over a three-year period, then failed to "get even" with him when he was forced to dismiss her for incompetency in 1948.

Tears appeared in Brehm's eyes when he referred to his mother, now dead, in his testimony and the court called a brief recess until he could regain his composure.

Brehm emphatically denied Tuesday that he ever directly received any money from Mrs. Soliday.

The Ohio congressman is expected to testify that campaign contributions placed in an office drawer by another former employe, Mrs. Emma S. Craven, were returned to her untouched after the 1948 campaign.

Mrs. Craven testified earlier in the seven-day-old jury trial

Very Realistic Cow Stampede Given In TV Show

CHICAGO, April 25—The Pat Rice family happily watched cowboys on television in their Chicago home last night until it suddenly was time for one more roundup.

The TV rustlers rustled, a gun battle blazed, and the cattle stampeded while the family watched.

Then a cow joined the audience and the family joined the stampede.

With a shattering of glass, a stage—or TV—struck heifer stuck its head through the living room window and said "MOO."

Before police could arrive, cowboys from a nearby stockyards packinghouse rounded up the cow and two other escapees roaming the neighborhood.

Said six-year-old Joan Rice as she was being tucked into bed: "Mom, did the cow really jump out of the television set?"

UN Army Told To Steel Souls, Ask Divine Aid

IN KOREA, April 25—Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet exhorted his Eighth Army troops today to "steel their souls to face the desperate, bitter and uncompromising battle with Communist aggression."

In a solemn order of the day, Van Fleet expressed confidence in "ultimate victory" and urged his troops to ask for divine guidance.

Van Fleet praised the skill of the United Nations troops and told them they are fighting for peace not only in Korea but also in their homelands.

In the enemy's "third round of unprovoked ruthless aggression," Van Fleet said, UN troops had superiority despite Red willingness to "drive masses into battle without regard to cost in lives." He added:

"This renewed battle is for the preservation of life, liberty, and the right to pursuit of happiness of all free men. These are fundamental in the life of man—the rock upon which our civilization is founded—and they are the first rights which Communism denies its own people.

"THE TIME HAS come when all men of the free and decent world must steel their souls to face the desperate, bitter and uncompromising battle with armed Communist aggression. Our strength rests on the solid foundation of belief in God and the rights of man rather than on the will of dictators imposed through cruelty and the complete disregard of human life."

As Van Fleet issued his statement, United Nations troops, aided by record artillery and air barrages, unleashed strong counter-attacks on Korea's central front, but gave more ground

Nationalists Sign U.S. Mutual Aid Agreement

WASHINGTON, April 25—Secretary of State Acheson revealed today that Nationalist China has been brought into a mutual assistance pact providing a new military supply program for the defense of Formosa.

Acheson insisted, however, that the program does not indicate a change in U. S. policy and would not permit the participation of Nationalist troops in Korea.

The agreement makes these specific provisions:

1. China will use the material to maintain its internal security or its ligitimate self-defense.

2. China will take security measures to prevent the disclosure and compromise of classified military articles, services or information furnished it.

3. China will accept a mission to be accorded adequate facilities to observe progress in use of the equipment and see that it is being used for the purpose agreed on and enforce any mutually agreed terms of the agreement. The mission will be attached to the American embassy.

4. China will not transfer the military material provided by any source without the assurance from the U. S. that it is not needed elsewhere for Western defense.

Western Powers Ready Showdown

PARIS, April 25 — The Big Three Western Powers were reported today to be preparing to force a showdown with Russia at the conference of foreign ministers' deputies.

The Westerners were pictured as convinced at this time that the Soviet delegation is not ready to cooperate in drafting an agenda for a top-level meeting of Big Four foreign ministers.

The Westerners were said to suspect Russian tactics reflect a desire to wait in the hope that the Korean situation might develop overwhelmingly in favor of the Communists. In this event the Russians would expect the Western attitude to soften.

FOODS, HOME APPLIANCES ON LIST

New Price Lids Set By OPS; Beef Regulations Planned

WASHINGTON, April 25—The Office of Price Stabilization coupled today a promise for beef ceilings this week with publication of its far-reaching manufacturers' price regulations.

The manufacturers' order made public last night requires an estimated 75,000 producers to figure new price lids on thousands of items including a wide range of processed foods and home appliances, many textile products and auto tires.

Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle said both increases and decreases will result but predicted "the net effect will be a rollback in the general level of manufacturers' prices."

Another action by OPS yesterday means new ceilings for apparel, home furnishings and thousands of other consumer goods will not become effective April 30, as scheduled, but one month later.

Under pressure from retailers, the pricing agency extended for one month the deadline for filing pricing charts under the regulation, which establishes a margin-type control.

The beef regulations will set dollar-and-cent ceilings at wholesale and retail and regulate prices packers may pay for live animals.

OPS said the four orders have been completed and are now being printed. The publishing job has been complicated officials said, by the length of the orders which contain pages of detailed dollar-and-cent price lists.

The list ranges from air-conditioning equipment to x-ray apparatus.

In brief, the general manufacturers' regulation allows producers to add increased labor and materials costs to pre-Korean selling prices.

Prices will be rolled back on manufacturers who widened their profit margin during the scare buying which followed the start of the Korean war.

Items affected by the order include radios, television sets, refrigerators, washing machines, ranges, furniture, many building materials, hardware, rubber products, most chemicals and paper and paper products.

Among the foods covered are candy, breakfast cereals, canned fish, gelatin desserts, packaged cookies, macaroni, spaghetti, potato chips, soup mixes, mustards, baking powder, crackers and pretzels.

Industries for which special price regulations already have been written are not affected by the manufacturers' order. Neither are makers of machinery, cotton textiles and apparel and shoes.

All raw agricultural products also are exempted.

The effective date of the lengthy order is May 28. The ceilings established under it probably will be recalculated within 90 days after that date because one manufacturers' product may be the raw material for another and may be rolled back or increased.

Increases permitted by the regulation must be held up 15 days after a manufacturer notifies OPS he intends to raise prices. Price controllers will check his calculations and may disallow the boost if they feel it is not justified.

UN Bombing OK Urged

GOPsters Want Use Of Chiang's Troops

WASHINGTON, April 25—A Republican senator urged the United States today to ask the United Nations to approve attacks recommended by Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Chinese Red bases in Manchuria.

Sen. Wiley, Wis., made the suggestion as two other Republican leaders asked that the Chinese Nationalists be permitted to invade the mainland.

Wiley, ranking minority member of the Foreign Relations Committee, told the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs that the UN should be petitioned for approval of bombing of the Reds' "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria.

House Minority Leader Martin, Mass., and Sen. Hickenlooper, Iowa, called for the invasion by Nationalist forces now being built up with U. S. equipment and training. The administration rejected MacArthur's pleas to use these same forces.

Another Republican, Sen. McCarthy, Wis., enlivened the MacArthur debate by charging that British Prime Minister Attlee had Communist connections and had influenced the dismissal of MacArthur.

Sen. Kefauver Is Critical Of O'Dwyer, Dewey

PHILADELPHIA, April 25—Sen. Estes Kefauver called upon Ambassador William O'Dwyer today for a soul-searching decision on whether he should keep his diplomatic post or resign.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee, labelled O'Dwyer's position "lamentable."

The New York hearings, said Kefauver, transformed the success story of O'Dwyer, who rose from patrolman to mayor of New York and then ambassador to Mexico, to a "melancholy essay on political morality."

Kefauver said of O'Dwyer:

"All I can suggest is that he search his consicence as to whether he thinks he is doing his country a service."

He criticized O'Dwyer's "truculent defense of his political and official conduct" during the hearings.

Kefauver declared:

"It was not inspiring to see this man, who at the moment he was testifying, occupied the honored position of United States ambassador to Mexico, seek to defend his own conduct by repeatedly shifting responsibilities to other officials."

Kefauver also criticized Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's failure to appear before the committee. He said:

"All of us thought it rather remarkable that Mr. Dewey, instead of coming to the location of the hearings as governors in other states did, should bid us to move our large staff up to Albany to talk with him."

WASHINGTON, April 25—The Senate Crime Committee, extended four months and with the chairmanship turned over to Sen. O'Conor, (D) Md., is expected to hit the drug traffic.

O'Conor said today that "the narcotics field is one which, for lack of time, the committee has not investigated, and I think it should be the subject of more thorough inquiry."

The Senate continued the committee until Sept. 1, and gave it an additional $100,000 for expenses.

2 Big Planes Crash In Air, Key West Says

KEY WEST, Fla., April 25—A four-engine civilian plane reported to have 39 persons aboard and a Navy SBD crashed in mid-air today and plunged into the sea a mile off Monroe County Beach near here.

Key West residents witnessed the crash. They reported that the civilian plane looked like a Pan-American Airlines craft that customarily flies over about the time the crash occurred.

There was no official statement of either plane's designation.

Reports received by the Key West Citizen said it was believed the civilian plane was a Pan-American aircraft enroute from Miami to Havana with 34 passengers and five crew members.

Six Navy boats sped to the scene where parts of plane wreckage began coming to the surface. A blimp directed the search from overhead.

The boats reported finding one body, that of a woman.

Ohio House Due To Take Vote On Appropriations

COLUMBUS, April 25 — The Ohio house takes a long step toward final adjournment by the June 1 target date today when it acts on the $732 million budget for the next two years and the senate-approved Mechem sales tax amender.

The Republican majority is to caucus prior to bringing the two bills to a vote, obviously to forestall a last-ditch attempt by the school lobby to get more money in the appropriations bill before it goes to the senate.

The money measure provides some $16.5 million more for schools in the next two years than they received in the last biennium. The school lobby, however, is demanding $37 million.

The school lobby also proposed changes in the Mechem bill if the house members believe additional revenues are needed to finance additional school aid.

The OEA said the one-cent sales tax should be reimposed on sales of 13 to 40 cents to raise the additional revenue.

However, the GOP caucus is expected to discuss the proposals and then go along with the

They Only Wish He'd Quit Now

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 25—Patrolman Christopher Aspall, 60, has requested retirement from the police department effective June 1.

As a result, Springfield motorists are overjoyed. They would even like to see him retired today.

Aspall claims the world's record for issuing parking tickets. Last year he handed out 33,000 tickets for illegal parking, bringing his total for the last five years to over 200,000.

That Makes $48 Billion For 1 Year

House Panel Cites Increasing Costs

WASHINGTON, April 25—Another $6.5 billion was voted today for the armed forces by the House Appropriations Committee, bringing total military funds for this year to $48 billion.

The committee approved all but $275,000 of the new funds requested by the Defense Department.

This is the third additional sum voted for the armed forces since the outbreak of the Korean war last June 25. The initial appropriation was $13.2 billion, followed after the Korean outbreak by additional appropriations of $11.7 billion, $16.7 billion and now $6.5 billion.

Part of the new funds will be used during the remaining months of the current 1951 fiscal year which ends June 30. The rest will be used during the new 1952 fiscal year which begins July 1.

President Truman may ask Congress to appropriate $78 billion for the armed forces for the 1952 fiscal year. Two Defense Department officials indicated while testifying on the request for the $6.5 billion that the 1952 request might reach that staggering sum. The President had estimated in his January, 1951, budget request that $61 billion would be needed for the new year.

IN ADDITION to the new defense funds, the committee also voted another $46.8 million for the Atomic Energy Commission for the current fiscal year. All funds are included in a fourth supplemental appropriation bill for fiscal year 1951.

The Defense Department estimated that the armed forces will reach 3,341,000 by June 30 and revealed that Airforce combat units have been increased from 51 to 81 wings in the last three months.

The new funds would be allotted as follows among the armed

County Merchants Scored For Lack Of Interest In OPS

Everyone was present but an audience at a meeting called Tuesday in Court-Main restaurant to discuss Office of Price Stabilization rulings.

Circleville Chamber of Commerce called the meeting for the benefit of local merchants affected by OPS regulations. OPS Representative Sam Roe of Columbus was present to speak on various phases of the new rulings.

But he had only half a dozen persons to address.

And, according to Chamber Secretary John Magill, only three of those were merchants affected by present OPS rulings.

"What happened," said Magill, "was that Pickaway County merchants turned down an opportunity to learn about regulations that are going to have a very definite affect on them.

"Merchants from hardware, variety, furniture, clothing and jewelry stores should have attended that meeting. There were things for them to learn.

"It's certain that OPS forms are not being filled out correctly at present. Roe said that 95 percent of the reports submitted to the Columbus OPS office are being returned to merchants because of mistakes."

Magill added that no member of the new OPS advisory board recently appointed by Mayor Thurman I. Miller was present at Tuesday's meeting.

He explained that the advisory board was set up to take over duties now being performed by the chamber.

"But as far as the chamber is concerned, it is only a temporary setup," Magill went on. "We agreed to act as a sort of clearing house for OPS information until the advisory board could be formed. And now it has been formed, but—

"Actually the chamber is not authorized to answer OPS questions on its own. All the chamber can do is pass on literature sent down from the Columbus OPS office.

"It is not up to the chamber to get out and spend a lot of money to spread information about OPS. There are a lot of merchants in cross-road stores throughout the county who have only a vague notion of what it's all about. Yet those people are expected to file reports just the same as everyone else."

In Columbus, OPS spokesmen reported that restaurant, hotel and tavern operators have to file statements under OPS regulation 11.

The operators are required to select one of two possible base periods, either the entire calendar year of 1949 or the 12 months between July 1, 1949, and June 30, 1950, to determine the cost-price ratio under the regulation.

Magill quoted Roe as saying that a 30-day extension has been granted on filing of OPS reports. He said the filing deadline has been changed from April 30 to May 30.

OPS spokesmen said most retailers in Ohio must file list date pricing charts.

Any businessman who has any doubt that he must comply with ceiling price regulation seven of the OPS should get in touch with the OPS district office at 68 East Gay street, Columbus.

The pricing charts are the first step toward legal compliance with ceiling price regulation seven under which they soon must begin to sell.

The retailer is to make up on his own forms his list date price charts. These charts show by kinds the merchandise he sells, what it cost him and how much he sold it for on last Feb. 24.

Retailers of gasoline are required by ceiling price regulation 13, covering retail ceilings on petroleum products and effective last March 21, to file ceiling prices with the Columbus OPS office only when they compute their ceiling price by adding four cents to their supplier's price, or by adding to their cost the same margin used in the base period from Dec. 19, 1950, to Jan. 25, 1951.

OPS also pointed out that records, receipts and so forth are not to be sent to OPS offices, but should be preserved at the place of business and made available to OPS representatives when required.

Ohio's Two Senators Take Stand

that she turned over $210-a-month of her salary to Brehm for six months in 1948.

SHE DENIED ever getting any of it back, and said she turned down Brehm's offer to return it shortly before he was indicted by a federal grand jury.

Mrs. Brehm is scheduled to follow her husband on the stand to support his story that he did not know $600 in contributions to his 1946 and 1948 campaigns apparently came from Mrs. Soliday.

Brehm said Mrs. Craven privately admitted to him that she was afraid to tell that the money was returned to her because she didn't list it on her income tax return.

He is charged with violating the Corrupt Practices Act by accepting illegal contributions from Mrs. Craven and Mrs. Clara Soliday.

The congressman testified shortly after going to work in his office in January, 1948, that she wanted to contribute something to the "Republican war chest" explaining:

"I've been around on the Hill; I know what goes on up there."

Brehm said when she insisted over his objections on putting aside something for the campaign, he told her she could put the money in a file drawer in the office where it could be sent to the Republican committee "if it was needed."

He said "six or seven" envelopes in the drawer were returned to Mrs. Craven in January, 1949, after she had left his employ to work for another congressman.

Brehm said Mrs. Craven thanked him profusely and called him a "grand guy" when he told her the money had not been needed in the campaign.

The trial is expected to go to the jury Thursday.

The 58-year-old congressman, speaking so rapidly that the court reporter had to ask him to slow down, vigorously denied the accusations.

Brehm testified that Mrs. Soliday gave him nothing but "conversation." He said he offered employment to Mrs. Soliday in 1944 because he felt sorry for her when he learned she was about to lose her job at the Treasury Department.

He said she came to him early in 1946 and told him she wanted to make a financial contribution to the party because she knew it was "customary." Brehm said he told her that if she wanted to help she could write some letters to the people at home "telling them I'm not such a bad guy."

He said "she (didn't) have money (to give at that time)—all she had was conversation and that's all she ever did give me."

BREHM ADMITTED his wire later the same year turned over to him a $100 anonymous contribution, but said he did not know it came from Mrs. Soliday.

The congressman explained that anonymous contributions were common in his district because "the folks are afraid of the Underwoods."

Brehm defeated Mell Underwood Jr., the Democratic candidate, in the 1950 congressional race.

Brehm's former secretary, Mrs. Barbara Landzer, preceded him to the stand to support his claim that Mrs. Craven was returned her "contributions."

She testified that Mrs. Soliday told Brehm when he discharged her in early 1948:

"I'll get even with you if it's the last thing I ever do."

2 County Towns Get Gas Rebate

Two villages in Pickaway County Tuesday received refunds totalling $1,246.24 from Ohio Fuel Gas Company for overpayments.

The villages are Williamsport, receiving $886.55, and Tarlton, getting back $359.69.

Both villages maintain their own gas distribution system, buying the fuel from the firm and retailing it to consumers.

According to Ernest Irwin, Williamsport village clerk, the overpayments on wholesale purchases of the gas covered approximately 15 months.

Lancaster received a refund of $38,971.

UN Army Told To Steel Souls, Ask Divine Aid

in the west to Chinese hordes bearing down within 20 miles of Seoul.

Tank-led Allied spearheads also struck back at North Korean forces on the east wing of the 110-mile front, re-entering the road center of Inje, four miles above Parallel 38, without contacting the enemy.

In the west, however, a massive new Red assault, powered by three Chinese divisions, punched out local breakthroughs down the Uijongbu "invasion corridor" north of Seoul and reached within 20 miles of the South Korean capital.

Residents of newly-threatened Seoul already were fleeing south in the third civilian evacuation of the wrecked capital city since the Korean war began ten months ago.

On the mountainous central front, American and other UN tank-infantry combat teams lashed out Wednesday with sudden, sharp counter-blows after closing a Chinese-made gap seven miles below Parallel 38.

THE U. S. EIGHTH Army's Wednesday night communique declared that the Chinese pressure in mid-Korea was "decreasing" in intensity when the armor-paced Allied columns struck back.

The bulletin said counter-attacks were hurled at the Red hordes north and northeast of Kapyong, while other UN troops smashed back at the enemy south and southwest of Hwachon following Allied abandonment of the Hwachon reservoir.

The latter Allied counter-thrusts moved in a northwesterly direction, ramming into the east flank of powerful Chinese shock units which had broken through to within five miles of Kapyong. That town straddles the vital highway running 45 miles southwest from Chunchon to Seoul.

A Wednesday field dispatch said two jolting UN counter-attacks were uncorked west and north-northwest of Chunchon in an effort to blunt or crush the huge Chinese salient pointed at the Chunchon-Seoul road.

In the east-central and west sectors alone, the thundering guns hurled 32,600 rounds of shell fire on the enemy Tuesday. Below and in Inje, an estimated 2,000 Red casualties were credited to this massive artillery barrage.

Air support given the hard-fighting UN ground forces was comparable to that of the artillery. The U. S. Fifth Airforce said Wednesday night its pilots had caused nearly 1,500 casualties during the day in strikes against Red troops "driving down the Uijongbu corridor and across the 38th Parallel in Central Korea."

To replenish their depleted ranks, the Communists were moving heavy reinforcements and supplies down North Korean roads toward the turbulent front. Allied airmen spotted 1,100 enemy vehicles in the hours before dawn Wednesday.

Thus far the Red troops, in their new assault, had not yet received any front line support by planes or tanks—such as their Chinese leaders had promised them in propaganda radio broadcasts.

could successfully invade China this Fall. He predicted that Russia would not intervene.

Hickenlooper said that if the UN is ever to win in Korea it must make use of the Nationalist troops.

It was reported that Gen. Matthew Ridgway, who succeeded MacArthur in the Far East when President Truman dismissed the "hero of Bataan," sent an urgent message to the Pentagon asking use of Nationalist troops against the Communist.

The disclosure was made by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's spokesman, indicating that MacArthur plans to present the Ridgway message as documentation of his case when he explains his Far Eastern views to Congress next week.

MacArthur will be the first witness before the combined Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees in hearings starting May 3.

McCarthy fired this comment on hearing of Whitney's statement:

"I GUESS WE'LL have to get rid of all our military men and send over panty-waists from the State Department and let them fight the war with cream-puffs."

Earlier McCarthy charged that Attlee had Communist connections and asserted that Attlee helped Secretary of State Acheson get MacArthur fired.

McCarthy brought to the Senate floor a photograph he said showed Attlee giving the Communist clenched-fist salute, and added:

"Truman is President of this country in nname only. The real President is a sinister monster of many heads and many talents conceived in the Kremlin and given birth by Acheson and (British Foreign Secretary) Morrison."

Sen. Kerr, (D) Okla., said Whitney's statement of Ridgway's plea "further dramatizes the necessity of MacArthur's appearance before the Senate Armed Services Committee, where he can speak for himself and be cross-examined.

"MacArthur is the man who wanted authority to expand the war. MacArthur is the man released for insubordination and refusal to comply with orders.

"I am against the MacArthur program of expanding the war into the mainland of China. And I was against MacArthur's refusal to abide by orders of the Joint Chief and from the commander-in-chief."

Garvey Facing Rustling Trial In Marysville

John Garvey, 36, of Urbana, is to be tried in Marysville Saturday on two counts of allegedly rustling sheep and cattle.

The Urbana man was arraigned Tuesday in the Marysville court and entered pleas of innocence to the accusations.

Garvey is allegedly a member of a seven-man gang accused of stealing or receiving stolen livestock in several central Ohio counties.

He has been indicted on two counts of stealing or receiving stolen livestock by Pickaway County grand juries. Garvey was indicted during the April grand jury on an accusation of stealing 43 sheep valued at $745 from the Ray Harden farm; and by the February grand jury for allegedly stealing 49 sheep valued at $745 from the Fred Call Jr. farm.

bill as recommended by committee.

THE HOUSE PASSED and sent to the senate, by a 103-14 vote, a bill to increase the maximum fine for hunting on property without permission from $15 to $150 for a first offense and from $50 to $250 for subsequent offenses. It also sent over, by a 106-10 vote, a bill to include cooperative telephone companies as public utilities under Ohio law.

By a 31-0 vote, the senate completed action on a house bill to strengthen the laws against jury intimidation, or for tampering with prospective jurors. The bill will increase the penalty from a $100 fine and 20 days in jail to a $1,000 fine and three years in the penitentiary.

Majority Leader Roscoe Walcutt (R-Columbus) introduced a bill to tax television and radio station properties on the same 50 percent personal property basis as other manufacturers. And Sens. Ted Gray (R-Piqua) and C. I. Powell (R-Springfield) sponsored a measure to provide a $50 fine for those who fail to pay the house trailer tax.

forces: Army, $2,850,594,000; Navy, $1,645,812,000; Airforce, $1,925,000,000.

They are needed to absorb the cost of increased prices and of the expansion of the armed forces.

The Navy revealed that its combat operating forces are being increased by the addition of two carrier air groups in conjunction with the activation of three large attack carriers.

The committee allotted $9,244,100 to activate the naval training center at Bainbridge, Md.; $3,150,000 for activating the Elliott Annex, San Diego, Calif.; $2 million to activate the Navy receiving station in New Orleans, and $5 million to reactivate the Long Beach Calif., naval shipyard.

Funds are also provided the Navy for reopening decommissioned hospitals at Corona and San Leandro, Calif.

Two Defense Deparament officials—Assistant Army Secretary Bendetsen and Airforce Under secretary McCone — told the House committee that the military budget for 1952 would be around $85 billion. However, some $6.5 billion of this was made available today.

The testimony of the two Defense officials, given the committee March 22 behind closed doors and just made public today occasioned surprise on Capitol Hill. Members recalled that only a few weeks ago, Defense Secretary Marshall predicted the request would approximate the amount advanced by the President last January.

How the increased appropriation would affect government spending in the 1952 fiscal year was not immediately known. Presumably it will mean a boost in estimated expenditures for the new year and make more difficult Congress' attempt to balance the budget.

2 More Burglary Cases Reported

Two more Circleville law offices were reportedly broken into sometime last weekend.

City police said Attorney Tom Renick reported Tuesday that his office and the office of Attorney Ray W. Davis had been broken into.

The attorney told the police that the breakins occurred some time between last Saturday and Tuesday. A table model cigaret lighter was taken from the Renick office, the only article reported stolen in the breakins.

TIPS TO FIRMS ARE GIVEN

BUC Says More Employers Using State's Services

To the average unemployed worker, the most important man in the community is the man who does the hiring—who gives him a job and puts him on a payroll.

This same view is shared by Manager C. C. Thomas and members of the staff at the Pickaway County Employment Center, located in Circleville.

To them, the employer is a customer—a customer who must be pleased and who must be multiplied in number if the Employment Center is to be more than a Dead End Street for the Pickaway County residents who register here for work.

"The employer," says Thomas, "has exactly the same relation to this office as the retail distribution outlet has to any commercial producer. We could register unemployed workers until our files were stacked to the eaves, and we would not be able to do them or the community one bit of good until job-orders came in from the employer. For that reason, we must be able to offer the employer certain specific services which have, to him, a tangible, time-saving and money-saving value."

WHAT ARE SOME of these services? The most important, Thomas thinks, is the same type of service which the employer gets from any supplier whose product saves him time, improves his own product, and cuts the cost of operation.

The local employment center, Thomas explains, is fundamentally a supplier of manpower. Normally, the employer supplies his own manpower by simply putting an ad in the daily newspaper. But—he must do his own interviewing, his own screening, his own classifying of skills. This is often a long, tedious and costly process. And out of as many as a hundred applicants he may get only two or three workers who meet his requirements.

"In such cases," Thomas points out, 'the employer may be pressed for time, or his personnel office may be understaffed. Whatever the reason, the qualifications of some applicants may be overlooked to the serious loss of the employer."

"Nowadays, more and more employers in the Circleville area are bringing their employment problems to us. They ask us to do the interviewing in advance, so that the actual time spent in hiring in the company office may be reduced to a minimum."

"How much time can the local employment center save the employer? That," says Thomas, 'depends entirely upon the employer, the confidence he reposes in the Employment Center, and the amount of detailed information he sends along with the job order."

"WE LIKE, OF COURSE," Thomas says, "to have as much information as we can get. The Dictionary of Job Titles, which contains descriptions of 20,000 jobs, is the basis of all our employment work. Most personnel offices today use it as a handbook. Moreover, we think we know the language of the employer. In most problems involving employment, we meet on commonground.

"Our ability to send him qualified workers that most nearly meet his requirements is governed almost entirely by the information he gives us. If, for instance, the employer calls up and simply says he wants two bench machinists, lets it go at that, all we can do is send him two machinists—a simple placement procedure."

"The other side of the picture," Thomas 'says, "is like this:

'The employer who wants and receives real service, is the employer who calls the Employment Center and gives us a complete word picture of the job. The picture, thus given us, is so complete that when the employer finishes his description we know, almost as well as he, just what kind of worker the job requires.

"Under these circumstances, we can give the employer the highest type of service with savings easily translatable in terms of dollars and cents."

Escaped Gorilla Put To Flight By Train Whistle

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 25—The Rock Island Railroad and a 15-inch midget brought "Terrible Tim" back alive—and the 300-pound gorilla is once again in captivity in a carnival near Hot Springs.

For more than four hours yesterday the hulking gorilla—who escaped as he was being transferred from a truck to a cage—prowled through 10 fenced-in acres of the Haney Brothers Carnival Winter quarters three miles from Hot Springs.

Carnival workers armed with shotguns moved across the wooded land. Others baited trails back to the animal cages with fruit and other gorilla delicacies.

At the carnival gate, guards turned away city, county and state police, newsmen and crowds of curious spectators from Hot Springs.

Heading the searching party was B. O. "Buttons" Grantham, a carnival midget who doubles as gorilla trainer. Grantham was in charge when the 18-year-old beast leaped from the truck that had carried him from an animal farm in Egypt, Mass., to the carnival.

But the search was fruitless—until a Little Rock, Ark.,-bound passenger train on Rock Island Railroad tracks adjoining the carnival quarters cut loose with an ear-splitting, shrieking whistle.

That did it. Gibbering and quaking, Tim emerged from hiding—and streaked for his cage. Grantham and a crew of aides prodded him in with poles and the diminutive trainer slammed the gate. The trainer commented:

"He's not terrible any longer—just terrified."

Rita Hayworth Ready To Shed Her 3rd Mate

HOLLYWOOD, April 25—Rita Hayworth's marriage to Aly Khan, Moslem prince son of the fabulous Aga Khan, was reported today to be on the rocks.

The redhead, who is to return to Hollywood in a few days to resume her screen career, is said to have confided to a friend over long-distance telephone from New York that it is all over between her and her titled husband.

A New York development tended to confirm the report. Bartley Crum, prominent attorney in that city, has been retained by the actress.

Crum admitted that he had been retained, but said that he was not at liberty to go into details.

Meanwhile, Aly Khan is reportedly making every effort to keep the marriage from breaking up.

He has been in communication with her from Europe by telephone, cable and letter and is believed to have exacted a promise that she will not take any court action until he has seen her. It is not known when he will arrive in New York.

As Hollywood hears it, Miss Hayworth is going to handle the handsome Aly Khan with kid gloves in making him her third ex-husband.

The actress, who began her spectacular career as a dancing girl in the Mexican border towns of Tijuana and Agua Caliente, is expected to make no charge against the Moslem nobleman except that of incompatibility.

Letter To The Editor

The Circleville Herald encourages letters to the editor on pertinent subjects of local interest. However, unsigned letters will be disregarded. Nom de plume will be used if requested.

Editor, The Herald:

As Gen. Douglas MacArthur delivered his address to Congress last week it was my privilege to view it via television from the lobby of Percy Jones Army hospital at Battle Creek, Mich. This is the hospital where many of the Korean casualties are treated.

The television audience was composed of some civilians. Probably these were relatives or friends of the patients or personnel. I had gone there to bring my brother home on furlough, who is stationed there with the medics. Then there were the doctors, nurses, hospital personnel and several patients. I was very much interested in the expression and demeanor of those who had served under the general and who had paid such a price in their defense of liberty in the last few months. Here were young boys on crutches; apparently not out of their teens yet. They could have passed for high school boys—just kids. And then there were the wheelchair cases—an empty sleeve, an empty trousers leg—yes and I saw one with both legs amputated, apparently just above the knee. There were a number with several toes off; probably frostbite cases. One young lad had lost all his toes—just short club feet remaining. In comparison with the quadruple amputee who was treated here a few months ago I suppose they would have to be considered fortunate. Some were Negroes, some were white but any racial difference seemed to be forgotten or unimportant.

As the general delivered his speech, one could feel the tense atmosphere as the attention of this mixed audience was focused on the speaker. As one point after another was unfolded a faint smile could be noticed on the face of one young man starting life with one leg. There was no doubt that they were behind "Mac" one hundred per cent. These were the men who knew what the General meant when he spoke of war. Not from the newspapers or radio but from the bitter cold of a Korean Winter and the savage assaults of the Reds.

Then as the speech was concluded you knew that these soldiers felt that MacArthur had did his best for them. Just as the general mentioned that old soldiers just fade away so these young soldiers just faded away down the corridors of the hospital on their crutches and in their wheel chairs. Of course many hundreds of their comrades were unable to leave their beds to come to the lobby. And thousands who paid the supreme sacrifice would never view a telecast again.

Woman Indicted On 22 Counts

COLUMBUS, April 25—Mary Ann Long, 27, of Newark and Cleveland, is under indictment on 22 counts today for a series of burglaries and forgeries.

The mother of a six-year-old girl was indicted by the Franklin County grand jury Monday in Columbus on ten counts of entering homes while the occupants were absent, ten other counts of forgery based on the use of charge plates taken from homes and two counts of forging checks.

The accused woman was arrested April 9 in Columbus the day after she had traveled from Newark to see her daughter who is in the custody of her estranged husband.

Bud Development Continues Slow, Orchardists Told

COLUMBUS, April 25 — B. F. Janson, extension plant pathologist at Ohio State university, said today that apple bud development in Ohio for the most part has remained slow since last week.

However, he said, rapid bud development was reported in the Athens area.

In Southern Ohio the early varieties are prepink. A few Maiden Blush and Grimes trees in the Lawrence area are in full bloom. Late varieties in Southern Ohio are approaching prepink. Peaches in the Cincinnati area are showing pink.

In Central Ohio the earliest varieties are early prepink with the latest varieties in the green tip to delayed dormant stage.

Scabby apple leaf samples indicate that spore discharge in Southern Ohio will be very high during the next rain period. If the temperature during this period is close to 60 degrees and the foliage remains wet from 15 to 20 hours, heavy infection will occur on any unprotected foliage. Orchardists in the southern areas are advised to begin examining leaves on early apple varieties for scab lesions. Scab lesions usually appear about 11 days after infection occurs.

The discharge of spores in Central Ohio should be moderate during the next favorable period. Some orchardists in Central Ohio already have applied the first sulfur spray to early apple varieties.

REFORM ISN'T ENOUGH

PRESIDENT Truman succeeded in getting a reprieve for the malodorous Reconstruction Finance Corporation when he sent Congress his plan for reorganizing that much battered agency. He just barely managed it, by virtue of the provision that such a plan shall go into effect unless House of Senate records a constitutional majority against adoption. The adverse majority in the House fell short of 218 and the adverse majority in the Senate fell short of 49.

So the RFC will live at least a while longer. And, since it must have somebody to run it, presumably—a single head under the new plan—the President's choice for the job must be appraised. He has selected W. Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board and former secretary of the Air Force, as his new broom. Judging by the variety of jobs he has held, Symington seems to be making a profession of being a Truman career man.

But, after all, this must be considered a sort of interim appointment. The Senate Banking and Currency Committee plans to hold hearings, beginning this week, on legislation to do one of two things—further reform the policies and practices of the RFC or abolish it. When the subcommittee headed by Senator Fulbright has completed the new assignment given it, its decision should be to take the latter alternative.

There is not much of a case left for an institution whose very name is a misnomer and whose reputation has suffered badly. If any of its functions are really essential—which is doubtful—they ought to be performed by some new agency designed for the purposes it is meant to serve—and strictly limited to those purposes. A new broom is not enough.

UNEASY ON KOREA

AMERICANS might as well grit their teeth and prepare for eventualities in Korea which may not be pleasant. General Ridgway is on record as endorsing General MacArthur's assertion there aren't enough troops to counteract the pressure the Reds are capable of applying.

There are no indications Washington will send more than replacements to Korea. Appeals to other members of the United Nations to enlarge their token contributions of men and weapons fall on deaf ears.

Despite the hysterical efforts of the British to surrender to Peiping, there is little likelihood of an armistice with Red China unless the Red Chinese leaders have a change of heart.

There is an uneasy fear in many circles that the MacArthur dismissal may be regarded in Moscow as proof that the U. S. wants to avoid a showdown at all costs and as a result the Kremlin will become more cocky.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I often wonder what drives a scholar to do such a job as the production of "A Dictionary of Americanisms on Historical Principles." The two volumes consist of about 2,000 pages and deal with words which have been added to the English language in the United States.

Having heard a Damon Runyon story on the radio and being an occasional guest at Lindy's on Broadway, I looked for "bagel" and even for "beigel." I could not find it, nor could I find lox, which diturbed me no end. For if Broadway is not American, then beigel and lox are not Americanisms. I know that some go for hot dogs and some for chile con carne, but on Broadway, it is beigel and lox from City Hall for more than 15 miles to the Henry Hudson bridge.

Instead of lox, I found a definition of a Lucy Stoner, which is a gal who, although married, insists upon using her maiden name, to everybody's confusion. Nobody knows how to address an invitation to a Lucy Stoner and her husband, and when the wife is more famous, the poor husband goes through life as Mr. Lucy Stoner.

This dictionary marks "free lunch" as obsolete, which is altogether true. The only thing free in the United States is the air we breathe, and the beauty of the sky. Yet, the very phrase, "free lunch," raises a nostalgic tear. Very young people will never know how good a free lunch could be and that it was actually free and came with nickel beer. And the beer was full and rich. Those days are over and now we pay for everything.

Well, I looked through these fat volumes of an evening when I sought escape from such speeches as General Omar Bradley delivered in Chicago. No military man can possibly believe in a stalemated war and I could not help wondering why a fine man like Bradley would say such a thing. Funny, the things that happen to a man in high office!

So I found that "Hail Columbia" is a synonym for the expletive, "Hell!" and that took me back what seems to me to be a century or two when women used to say politely, "I'l give him Hail Columbia!"

That was to avoid saying such a bad word as hell. Imagine what those sweet ladies would have thought if they heard what President Truman said about Drew Pearson and the kind of words that have to be used to get a good curtain on a second act.

Maybe words don't count, but when I saw, in this dictionary, that a half-dollar is worth 50 cents, I wondered what the book is talking about. Now, anybody knows that a half-dollar won't buy in 1951 anything like 50 cents in purchasing power. Nobody knows what a half-dollar is worth today; it's always going down when you go to a store. Used to be that a family could get plenty to eat for half a dollar; there was a time when a good workman got a dollar a day and a full dinner pail.

It would seem from the record that it was back in those days that immigrants from all over the world steamed into this country because conditions were so favorable here, compared with the countries they came from. Life was pretty good here and we were a friendly folk and thought that one man was as good as another. Nobody worried about security in those days because nobody ever heard of it. A man took his chances with life and made his way as best he could, usually by hard work, long hours, thrift, and imagination. Some, of course, failed. But nobody knew about this thing called security, which, as we know, cannnot be guaranteed by anyone or anything.

CHAPTER FIFTY

MISTRESS SABRINA returned to Rhoda. Toby had set off for the shipyard. Jennet dropped down wearily in a corner of the settle, shivered. The fire on the hearth had died down; candles had sputtered out. Daylight came, thin and cold through the windows. Even her anger at Richard, at those stupid men who had taken Quint away, did not warm her.

Suddenly the door swung open and Erron strode in, Toby behind him. Jennet ran to him, clung to him. "Erron! Oh, Erron!"

Then, as quickly as she had flung herself at him; she drew away.

He saw her white, strained face. "What all's happened? Toby couldn't get out no more than that I was to come here, quick..."

She had to tell him—first, of Richard's appearing out of the storm with Rhoda. "She's up in her room—dreadfully ill from exposure. Sabrina's with her. Then Richard stole my horse. Then..." she stopped, to control a need to cling to him again.. "they came—a horrid little man and—and that Cordy Mosedale—and some soldiers and arrested Uncle Quint! For aiding the enemy! Oh, if you could have seen his face when he went out the door."

"Of all the goddom..." Erron broke off, embarrassed. "Excuse me, Miss Jennet."

Jennet's hands tightened into hard fists. "I say it too!"

"Now, girl, everything'll be all right. They'll find they're wrong. Soon as it's day I'll go to the Buffalo village—there's that Judge Merriam—he's a friend of Quint's—I'll talk to him. Right now..." He pushed her firmly back and down on to the settle. "I'm going to stir up this fire and cook us some breakfast. Got eggs? Any pork slices? Tell me where I'll find 'em."

Curled in her corner, she watched Erron rekindling the fire, putting the pork slices over, breaking the eggs, his big hands moving competently. It would be nice, she thought, drowsily, if Erron were her brother, instead of Richard...

She ate heartily. Erron grinned at her. "Like my cooking, eh?" She flushed a little under his look. "Toby..." she said hastily, "He must have some of it. Call him, please."

Erron did not return from the Buffalo village until the middle of the afternoon. Jennet knew at once by his face that his mission had been unsuccessful. "Didn't you see Judge Merriam?"

"I saw him—but he says he can't do anything—that it's in Caton's hands. I tried to talk to Caton—he wouldn't listen to me. Reminded me—reminded me—that we were at war! I asked to see Quint—they wouldn't let me!"

Word of Quint's arrest went quickly through the little settlement and men came into the taproom to protest loudly and profanely against it. Each was ready to swear on a Bible that Quint was as loyal as any of them. What did they expect a man with one arm could do? He'd been watched, had he? Cordy Mosedale, huh? That one would lie as quick as he'd steal! For days this talk went on but their defense of Quint, staunch as it was, could not release him.

Erron had gone on to the shipyard soon after his return from Buffalo. But at dark he came into the kitchen. "I'm staying the night here," he said to Jennet. He saw her lips open to protest it, and added, "Tonight and every night, Miss Jennet... until Quint's back."

She did not want him to stay—they did not need him, she declared to old Sarah, indignantly — and then found herself, the next night, waiting for his knock, found it reassuring when she went up the stairs, past Rhoda's closed door, to her bedchamber to know he was down in the taproom. But he did not try to engage her in talk, saying little more than good evening when he came in and goodby when he left in the morning.

Rhoda remained shut in her room. "But you said she was better," protested Jennet.

"Her body, yes."

"You mean..." Jennet stopped, afraid to go on.

"The spirit, when it is sick, takes longer to heal."

Sabrina carried food up the stairs, opened the bedchamber door quietly, closed it. But one noontime Jennet met her outside of the door. "Please let me take it in to her," she begged.

Mistress Sabrina gave Jennet the tray.

Rhoda lay with her face to the wall. She did not move or give any sign of knowing anyone had come into the room.

"Aunt Rhoda, here's your dinner!"

She turned her head at the sound of Jennet's voice and Jennet saw in her eyes something of the terror that had been in them the night she had stumbled in out of the storm.

"We're so glad you're better, Aunt Rhoda."

"Are you?" Rhoda's voice was weary.

Jennet went on. "We planted your flowerbed last spring—it was lovely through the summer—there were some morning glories climbing up to the window..." It sounded like babble to her ears but she was desperate to know what to say. "We kept hoping you'd come in time to see it."

Rhoda did not speak, but Jennet saw her lips tremble for just an instant. She picked up the fork and began to eat.

"You don't know about Becky's getting married, do you? To Michael Duffy..." She sat down at the foot of the bed and told the story of Becky's romance.

Rhoda went on eating, slowly, her eyes on the plate of food.

Jennet heard herself asking, "Aunt Rhoda, did you come to despise my father and brother—as I do?"

Rhoda looked up, her dark eyes blazing. "Yes."

"Then you know why I wanted to stay here with Uncle Quint and you?"

"Yes. I know. I thought you were a fool, but now I know."

Her lips trembled again and she put the fork down on the plate. Jennet knew now what Sabrina had meant when she said Rhoda's spirit was sick. Her pride had been broken; she had nothing to put in its place.

She hadn't knelt by her window since they had taken Quint away, but tonight she did. "You will be the stars to me, the moon, the whisperings of the forest..." But she could not find in Peter's words the thrilling meaning they had had for her before.

A few days later Sabrina said she was going. "She'll do and there're others who may be calling for me to come."

Jennet wished Mistress Sabrina would make one of her prophetic pronouncements before she rode away. She said, a little choke in her voice, "Mistress Sabrina, everything is so wrong—you see ahead, sometimes—please tell me."

"Your heart will tell you, child, but you must learn to know it." Then she turned and took the bridle from a peg.

When Jennet went back into the kitchen Rhoda was there, dressed, her hair, in smooth braids, coiled around her head. Jennet's impulse was to run to her and embrace her but the way Rhoda was standing, as a stranger might, looking slowly around the room, discouraged it.

"Where is your uncle?" asked Rhoda.

Jennet's heart sank. Of course, she did not know... "And I have to tell her!"

Side Effects of Antibiotics

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

AS our work with the antibiotics goes forward, we are becoming more and more aware that they may have what are known as undesirable side effects. One of the strangest of these is the encouragement which the antibiotics seem to offer to the growth of fungi that are known to exist in the body along with germs. It has been noted that when mixtures of germs are exposed to various antibiotics, those susceptible to the antibiotics are killed, but the remainder grow more abundantly than ever, perhaps because they have a free field.

The same thing is apparently true of a yeast-like parasite, known as monilial albicans, which normally exists in the mouth, bowel, and on the skin of healthy persons, but which ordinarily does no harm because its concentration is not great.

Developed Symptoms

Recently, however, a number of persons have been observed who developed symptoms from this cause after being treated with penicillin or aureomycin. Apparently the germs killed off by these medicines served previously to keep down the growth of the parasite. Once the germs were out of the way, it could multiply rapidly enough to cause harmful effects.

Such patients have sore mouth, so-called "hairy" tongue or black tongue, and cracking at the corners of the mouth. A number also developed persistent diarrhea after treatment with penicillin, aureomycin, or chloromycetin. In these patients, the monilial albicans was found growing abundantly in the stools.

Twenty-five persons with symptoms of this kind have been observed. In some there was infection of the mouth and esophagus; in others, of the intestinal tract and, in still others, of the lungs.

Sore Throat

In those patients with mouth symptoms, the usual course of events was for treatment of sore throat to have been carried out by means of antibiotics. The infection of the throat cleared up, only to be followed in from 24 to 72 hours by burning tongue, mouth, and throat. The tongue was thickly coated, often with an overgrowth of the little projections of the tongue called papillae. This gives the appearance of a black or hairy tongue. Later, this coating sloughed off, leaving the tongue dry and swollen, with a beefy-red color. There is also some change in the sense of taste.

Should these symptoms occur following treatment with one of the antibotics, it is important to make cultures to determine whether or not the monilial albicans is causing the difficulty so that the condition may be promptly treated. The parents must not look to the physician to give antibiotics for minor complaints, but they are employed only when the need for them is quite severe.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Bevan may have had a point in insisting on free false teeth instead of guns. Maybe the Laborites were considering biting Russians.

But the Laborites have given Britain a curious kind of government order which every citizen is entitled to free, double dentures to chew one ounce of meat a week.

It was necessary to hold down the importation of meat in order to provide free teeth not to eat any.

We don't know what this will do to Eisenhower's plans. Apparently he won't see many men with guns in England, but he will see quite a few with lovely smiles.

They also will be wearing free eyeglasses. If the Russians ever come, they will be easily recognized even if not repulsed.

We have a crisis in our own government, but the only place teeth figure in it is in the possibility that someone has bitten off more than he can chew.

And you don't need free eyeglasses to see who it is.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Judge Samuel Leibowitz

NEW YORK—The appearance in Washington the other day of Judge Samuel Leibowitz of Kings County Court, who with sad indignation told the Kefauver committee New York's cops receive around $20 million annually as "ice money" from gamblers, made me sad, too. It made me realize that since Judge Sam has stopped defending thugs, the Manhattan courtroom scene has been bare and colorless.

Judge Sam was a member of a remarkable era of barristers whose antics were so dramatic as to overshadow those of their clients.

There was Bill Fallon, the great mouthpiece, who swallowed poison in court and had his stomach pumped out shortly thereafter, to prove to a jury that his client couldn't have murdered anyone with that harmless ol' stuff.

There was Max D. Steuer, the brilliant chessmaster of the bar, and a hundred others, who appeared to have gone in for the legal profession with as much thoroughness as young actors getting ready to tread the boards.

And, of course, there was Judge Sam, who reportedly got 113 acquittals in 116 capital cases, whose clients on occasion included Vincent (Mad Dog) Coll, Al Capone, Max Becker, the insane Robert Irwin and others who were something less than a Credit to Society. He was a member of Bruno Hauptmann's counsel, but withdrew because he believed the German carpenter guilty of the Lindbergh kidnaping and couldn't get him to plead guilty.

MEN AND WOMEN JUMPED UP and stood in the aisles, shouting at the tops of their voices. Judge Sam picked his coat up, apparently a trifle uncertain of what he had touched off, and got off the platform, but they closed in on him and squeezed his hand, touched his coat and praised him loudly.

"I touched his hand," one large woman said ecstatically. "Lord! Lord!" The Rev. D. Ward Nichols, chairman of the meeting, asked in vain for order. Spirituals began to rise in the spring afternoon, and the hall became a bedlam of soulful and rejoicing humanity.

Judge Sam finally made it to a taxicab and then sat back and sighed. He looked at the fingers of his right hand, red and sore from being gripped while he still had a diamond ring on the hand. "What happened?" Judge Sam asked, dazed. "What did I say to cause all that?"

Well, that was a long, long time ago. Judge Sam no longer saves them; he sends them up the river now. Now he tells senators something should be done about "rats like Costello" and "wretches" who protect them. A remarkable man, Judge Sam. They don't make 'em that way any more.

THERE CAME A TIME IN JUDGE SAM'S LIFE when he evidently tired of saving the skins of accused murderers. He has been militantly warring against crime, tooth, nail and Page One headline.

The period in Judge Sam's Manhattan law career that appealed to me most was when he was defending the Scottsboro boys. It was not that I was on Judge Sam's side; it was just that there was an aura over the whole case.

There was one April day, for instance, when Judge Sam stood with arms upstretched and face wreathed by sunlight glinting through the stained-glass windows of Harlem's Salem M. E. church and heard himself hailed by 3,000 souls as—and I quote from the New York Tribune—"the new Moses, leading the colored people of America out of an Egypt of bigotry."

"I promise you, citizens of Harlem," Judge Sam said that day with trembling voice, "that I will fight with every drop of blood in my body," and so on, and three thousand voices broke loose. "Yes, Lord! You are our leader! A new Moses! Bless the Lord!" Feet pounded rhythmically on the floor; Judge Sam paused, then went on with rapturous fervor, "And I say to you now, from this platform, in this house of God, that they will not die!"

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

A young clergyman, about to preach his first sermon, was a bundle of nerves as he waited in the vestry. Would his voice carry? Would he hold his fashionable audience? Above all did he look his best? "Dear me," he reflected aloud, "if only there was a glass here." A moment later the verger tapped him on the shoulder and whispered. "Here's a whole bottle. All I had to do was mention your name."

A fine distinction between acquaintanceship and friendship has been established by such Southern tobacco auctioneers as haven't been exported to New York for radio appearances. Several were convening in a Winston-Salem pub when a newcomer approached. One of the group patted him on the back and said, "Russ, you know Joe Arbuckle, don't you?" Russ grudgingly extended a hand, and allowed, "We've howdied but we ain't shook."

Morris-Hamilton Rites Attended By Localites

St. Paul's Episcopal church in Chillicothe was the scene Saturday evening, of the marriage service uniting Miss Nancy Adair Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Florence Morris, of that city and Earl Leeper Hamilton, son of Mrs. L. L. Hamilton, 256 North Carsingham Road and Donald M. Hamilton, Sr., of the Neil House.

The dress of antique ivory satin had a tight bodice, a round neckline edged by a wide rosepoint lace bertha and long tight sleeves falling gracefully over the hands. A skirt of unpressed pleats cascaded over a hoop skirt. Child Problems and Solutions

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PhD

The infant's sleeping is closely related to his eating. The healthy newborn baby soon goes to sleep after each feeding and sleeps most of the time. For the next several weeks or months he may awaken with amazing regularity.

We have considered the merits of the modern self-demand method of infant feeding: also some of its pitfalls.

We have observed how reasonable it is for the pediatrician guiding the mother to have her feed the baby every time he seems to be hungry, during the first few weeks, in order to ascertain this child's particular needs in amount of food and frequency of its intake, before deriving a desirable feeding schedule for him.

We have observed that whereas some infants will choose early for themselves a desirable schedule, a good many other babies don't. When they do not after a month or so they may need to have a good schedule imposed upon them, a schedule which should later be revised from time to time, on the pediatrician's advice.

UNLESS A SCHEDULE is derived and reasonably adhered to in the early months all sorts of problems will arise in this youngster's management. Most often these problems arise in relation to the youngster's sleep. Regularity of sleep requires regularity of eating.

As any mother knows, if her infant has been accustomed for several months to be taken up every time he cries, he tends to cry more often. He soon has more wants than just for food. Even granting that for a while he cries only for food, he gains so many other pleasures when taken up.

He "sails" through the air, he is lifted to higher levels, he has so many interesting sensory experiences: the tender pressure of mother's arms and body, the ever new and changing sights and sounds. Then his pleasures must grow, too, from having someone respond so quickly to his demands. He must gain gradually in a sense of power. Indeed, he can soon become a little tyrant.

By and by he may demand that his mother stay with him after he is tucked into bed, or rock or teeter him till he falls asleep, or that she take him into bed with her when he is nine months or even five years old.

He may demand that she keep coming to his bedside after he is tucked in for the night when he is two or even six or eight, to minister to his many ways continuing over a period of an hour or more, night after night. She may not be able to read or relax a minute during the day because he begs her constantly to amuse him. Accustomed to having what he wants when he wants it, the growing youngster won't learn self-reliance physically or emotionally. How can he be happy and likeable? How can he get the love and affection that he so much needs?

It's all very well to say that we parents should give the growing child an abundance of affection. But how is it possible for any parent to be always lovely with a child who has not learned to wait, who has no regard for her authority and is constantly vexed when she does not give him what he wants and right away? Heaven pity the mother who supposes that to love the child is to give him nearly always what he wants or let him do as he pleases.

Elinor Williams'

Teen Tips

When a boy invites a girl from out-of-town to a prom, who pays her expenses. . .train fare, meals, etc.? It's a big question and it's appeared in this column before, but it's still on the minds of boys like the one who wrote this letter:

"I would like your thought on the problem in my mind. I have asked my girl friend from out of town to the Prom this year. She has accepted and is coming on the train. My friends say that it is proper for me to pay her way up, but my folks think that it is her responsibility. I was wondering what should be done. If you will nswer me in your column, thank you very much."

Ans.—When a girl from out of town attends a prom it's correct for her to pay her train fare. After her arrival at the campus she's your guest and it's up to you to make all arrangements for her room, meals and entertainment. All expenses except train fare are paid by the boy who invites her, because he is her host and escort.

In Spring a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love—and that spells trouble for this boy—"I have been going steady with a girl for almost a year," he writes. "As soon as things" started to get serious she decided to quit. She didn't give any reason for this except that she wanted to be really sure of her feelings toward me. I can't understand it, as I've told her how I feel about her. What do you think I should do?"

Ans.—Be glad that she was frank, friendly and honest enough to let you know she's not sure she likes you enough to be "serious." Why not date her occasionally, if she'd like to, and see how it works out? Wouldn't this be better than not seeing her at all?

North American Ready To Start Plane Output

COLUMBUS, April 25 — Work on a production line for the manufacture of airplane parts at the defunct Lustron Corp. here is scheduled to begin either today or tomorrow.

Capt. B. B. Smith, Navy Bureau of Aeronautics representative for North American Aviation Corp., said yesterday that a construction crew will clear the Lustron plant of some of its prefabricated housing machinery to set up a production line.

The huge plant has been acquired by the Navy which has turned it over to North American. Clyde M. Foraker, court appointed receiver for the Lustron property in foreclosure, has custodial control of some $2 million in bank balances and accounts receivable.

Smith said North American engineers will decide how much of the pre-fab housing machinery the corporation can use and the Navy will do the same.

Smith said that some of the machinery was given a trial run yesterday and that some aircraft parts made with it can be used.

Art Wilkin Bids For Mushroom Champ Title

Art Wilkin of 151 East High street has shown every indication of becoming Circleville's mushroom-finding champion.

For the last two years, Wilkin has earned the distinction of being the first Circleville man to find mushrooms.

He added another feather to his cap Tuesday afternoon when he sauntered into his back yard and, under close scrutiny, picked more than a dozen white spongue mushrooms.

Wilkin said he believed the mushrooms grew in his back yard from the roots of mushrooms taken in the last two years. He said that he tossed the roots from the old mushrooms into the yard after cleaning them.

World Corn Crop Reviewed

WASHINGTON, April 25—In a world review on the corn situation, the Department of Agriculture says production in 1950 was 5,325,000 bushels—five percent less than in 1949 and 11 percent less than the record 948 crop. But this is still 12 percent above prewar production.

Nearly 60 percent of the 1950 crop was produced in this country where the department said improved cultural practices and widespread use of higher-yielding hybrids have hiked production despite a falling trend in acreage.

During the last five years corn production in the U. S. averaged 17 percent greater than in the 1920's from an acreage about 15 percent smaller.

Court Employe Given Sentence

LIMA, April 25 — Mrs. Alma Schlott, former Lima probate and juvenile court employe, must serve at least 28 months in the Marysville Reformatory for embezzling court funds.

Common Pleas Judge Moran B. Jenkins sentenced her Saturday on four indictments charging embezzlement, obtaining money by false pretense, forgery and combinations of the crimes —but some of the sentences were concurrent and some consecutive.

Mrs. Schlott confessed she used the money for ordinary living expenses over a period of 10 or more years.

Young Ladies Now Working As Street Bookies

NEW YORK, April 25 — The slim, trim miss who may be found hanging around New York street corners these days is a byproduct of the recent Senate crime hearings.

That was the opinion expressed today by Plainclothesman Gerald Hirsh who says attractive young girls have taken up the profession of bookmaking.

Hirsh expressed his views when he testified against Jeane Hawes, 23, a shapely and comely brunette, who was ordered to spend 30 days in jail or pay $100 fine for taking horse bets in a vacant lot.

The policeman told reporters that the ladies have taken over the bookmaking racket because the oldtime bookies believe the girls do not come under ready suspicion.

Lads Are Cited For Rail Damage

A pair of 15-year-old boys was turned over to Pickaway County juvenile authorities Tuesday for allegedly destroying railroad property.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Diltz said the boys have admitted tearing down railroad signs, shooting out signal lights and putting rocks in switches along the Norfolk and Western Railway near Bells Siding.

W. H. Hornbarger, detective for the railroad, estimated damage from the action of the boys at about $100.

Italian Police Close Paper

ROME, April 25—Italian police unexpectedly padlocked the Rome Daily American Monday, ordering it to suspend publication on the grounds that its "flatbed press makes too much noise."

The closing followed a long campaign against the publication, the only American daily in Italy, by the Communist press.

Jack Begon, head of the company which publishes the paper, said:

"It is obvious the real issue is not noise. It is a modified version of the Argentine action against La Prensa. It means it is unhealthy for American papers in Italy."

The British cabinet crisis caused by the resignation of Aneurin Bevan as minister of labor promised today to have widespread repercussions and a possible effect on Anglo-American relations.

Bevan had been expected to quit and gave clear advance warning.

But while it was generally felt that he was dissatisfied over cuts in the national health service, Bevan surprised everyone by blaming Prime Minister Attlee's alleged subservience to the United States for his action.

Bevan's declaration to the House of Commons was one of the most bitter anti-American statements heard in parliament in recent years and clearly showed that he has fired the opening salvo in an obvious attempt to take over leadership of the Labor Party on the issue.

Political observers concede that the Attlee regime is now gravely endangered from within and Bevan is likely to find a large measure of support in his charges that Attlee is hanging on the coattails of American capitalism.

HIS CHARGE THAT American rearmament has unsettled world economies and that American capitalism "is unable to restrain itself at all" were included in a call for full-scale Socialist revival and reduction of arms expenses to a point fully within the capacities of the country.

There are millions of Britons who feel that the government has lost its indeppendence and initiative and is merely following blindly in the wake of United States policy.

The extent of cleavage between Britain and the United States is shown in the differences of opinion on Korea and Communist China and in British criticism of the nomination of an American admiral to command the West European defense navies.

To many Britons, the length of time that Britain accepted Marshall Plan aid was distasteful.

Others regardless of political affiliation have accused the United States of far too hasty action in Korea and there are vast numbers who agree with Bevan that British rearmament, allegedly under American urging, is threatening inflation and a wholesale dislocation of economies.

All such criticism, especially when it comes from the Labor ranks, is dangerous for the Attlee government.

His attitude is that Britain has sacrificed none of her sovereignty and in support of this claim points to such things as British refusal to participate in the Schuman Plan for pooling Europe's coal and iron resources.

The extent of the present differences between Bevan and Attlee is surprising even though Whitehall observers always have emphasized the possibility that "Wild Man" Bevan would revolt and take the leftwing along with him.

It is clear that Bevan does not regard the Communist menace as seriously as Attlee and other members of the Labor regime.

He made clear that in his belief American rearmament can do more harm than Communist expansionism. He said:

"It has disturbed the economy of the Western World to such an extent that if it goes on more damage will be done by this unrestrained behavior than by the behavior of the nation (Soviet Russia) that the arms are intended to restrain."

Bevan gave his real and potential followers a slogan which said that "Democratic Socialism is the only hope for mankind."

The Labor Party strategists are gravely concerned over developments.

Bevan has great popularity among the working classes. He is the son of a Welsh coal miner and mined himself before he found a profession in schoolteaching.

He has a powerful oratorical address and has never hesitated to tangle with the Conservative lions of parliament, up to and including Winston Churchill.

HE KNOWS HE has a certain amount of firm ground in protesting against heavy armament expenses which threaten to cut into social service costs.

Bevan and his clique want nothing done that will interfere in any way with the complete socialization of Britain and he clearly feels that there is no time like the present for putting his case to the people. The next few days will be of vital importance in the personal and political fortunes of Clement Attlee and the fate of Socialism in Britain.

Ohio Legislature Moves To Tighten Election Laws

COLUMBUS, April 25 — The Ohio senate yesterday passed, 29-5, and sent to the house a bill to establish countywide registration of voters in all 88 counties.

Meanwhile, the house elections committee recommended for passage a substitute bill stiffening the requirements for independent candidates seeking a place on Ohio's office type ballot.

The new bill—a combination of bills originally proposed by Reps. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) and Bishop Kilpatrick (D-Trumbull)—increases the number of signatures required on their petitions from one to seven per cent of the number of voters who cast ballots at the last election for governor.

It also requires that they file their petitions at the same time regular party candidates file for nomination in the primary. This provision would prevent a partisan candidate who was defeated for nomination in the primary from filing for a different office by petition as an independent in the November elections.

The countywide registration bill, authored by Sen. Al Daniels (R-Greenfield) was amended on the floor to become effective in time for the 1952 primaries. At present registration is compulsory only in cities of 16,000 population or over, and countywide registration is optional.

Daniels said that "it's been my observation that booth officials will give a ballot to anyone who asks for one" and cited an instance in which, he said, 15 or 16 residents of Mansfield had voted in Crestline, miles away and in a different county. Also, he said, there were records of voters casting "four or five ballots" in non-registration areas.

Meanwhile, Circleville Tiger baseballers continued their slashing, game - winning attack Tuesday by collecting a 6-1 victory over Wilmington Hurricane hardballers at Wilmington.

Tuesday's victory ended the first half of the 1951 South Central Ohio League season for the Red and Black squad without a loss to mar its record.

So far, the big bats and keen pitching of the Tigers has accounted for four victories in as many starts this season. All four victories have been over SCO league foes and only four more league games stand between the locals and another championship.

In Tuesday's encounter, both teams opened the game on equal footing by tallying single runs in the first inning, while neither team was able to send a run home during the next two frames.

Circleville broke into the scoring column again in the fourth inning with a single for a 2-1 edge, following through with a brace of runs in the fifth and another two runs in the seventh to clinch the game while holding the hapless Hurricane team scoreless.

* * *

TIGER SOUTHPAW Dud Morris was credited with the victory, allowing the host Wilmington team only four safeties while fanning 10.

Jim Cook, Tiger first-sacker, connected for only one hit in four trips to the plate during the game, but his batting efforts were worthwhile. Cook blasted out the only homerun of the game.

Jerry Rooney and Pitcher Morris both cracked out two-basers in the contest, while Big John Valentine singled safely in both of his trips to the platter.

Tiger baseballers are slated to meet Chauncey Dover at 4 p. m. Friday in Ted Lewis Park in a non-league encounter.

Other games for the CHS'ers this season, barring possible conflict of district tournament competition, are a doubleheader against Greenfield here next Tuesday; a road trip to Washington C. H. May 4; and a road trip to Hillsboro May 8 for the season finale.

Judge Parker's Wisdom Noted In Coon Dog Trial

Pike County Judge Earl Parker, who is a frequent visitor to Pickaway County, is noted for the wisdom-with-a-smile that he expounds from the bench.

Assigned to Franklin County common pleas court Tuesday, the silver-thatched jurist added the Parker touch there in a case involving an aging coon hound.

"Every dog has his day and that day for "Indiana Boss," the unregistered coon dog involved, is just about over, Parker noted.

A ruling from the judge holds that the dog's age was misrepresented when Wayne Burkey of Reynoldsburg sold "Boss" to S. C. Davis of Charleston, W. Va.

The jurist made a $600 award to Davis. Attorney David E. Morgan, representing Davis, said the dog's "infirmities" were first noticed in the 1948 Labor Day Leafy Oak field trials near Kenton.

Davis contended that the former owner of the dog said the canine was five years old in May, 1948, but actually was seven.

The jurist said:

"It is true that 'Boss' beat his competitors in two different occasions when (Davis) owned him and thus brought into (Davis') coffers the sum of $200.

"It also appears that shortly thereafter 'Boss' deteriorated rapidly and could no longer compete with other dogs of his class.

"In our opinion it was just another case in which the old saying 'every dog has his day' could be appropriately applied."

Brewers Lead AA; Redbirds Upset Blues, 4-2

COLUMBUS, April 25 — Milwaukee occupies the American Association throne today after unseating front-running Toledo last night by a score of 5-3.

The Mudhens, who until the bottom of the eighth were behind 5-0, get a chance to redeem themselves tonight when they entertain Milwaukee again.

The Columbus Redbirds and a pitcher called Cot Deal opened a series with Kansas City in Redbird Stadium last night by defeating the Blues 4-2. The Birds get the chance to climb out of their fourth-place slot tonight.

Louisville, which has lost six games in seven starts, is host again tonight to Minneapolis. The Kentucky team lost 5-4 in 11 innings of play with the Millers.

St. Paul will try to ward off Indianapolis again tonight after suffering a 10-4 setback last night on the Hoosier diamond.

Wilman Seeking To Keep Mark

ST. PAUL, April 25—A Berwyn, Ill., bowling ace bids to retain his 10-year average lead in the American Bowling Congress tournament here today when he makes his initial appearance in the 1951 tourney.

Joe Wilman, who bowls with the Tri-Pars of Chicago, twice has rolled 2,000 all-events totals in the tournament and needs a 1,759 for his nine games to retain the lead.

Proposed Law Would Double Fishing Costs

COLUMBUS, April 25—Hunting and fishing licenses in Ohio would go from $1 to $2 each under terms of a bill recommended unanimously for passage last night by the house conservation committee.

The increase is included in an omnibus natural resources department bill, patterned on the recommendations of the Ohio Program Commission and sponsored in the house by conservation-minded Rep. Ray White (D-Holmes).

Before it was approved, however, two major amendments watered down its other provisions considerably. One amendment knocked from the bill a provision that would have brought the strip mine reclamation division under the control of the natural resources department. The division is now and will remain under the agriculture department.

The other amendment knocked out a provision which would have made Lake Erie's commercial fishermen subject to regulation by the wildlife council of the natural resources department. Commercial fishermen now are controlled only by specific laws.

The bill generally corrects discrepencies in the law enacted two years ago setting up the natural resources department.

Casey Stengel In Hospital

NEW YORK, April 25—Yankee Manager Casey Stengel is under treatment today for a stomach ailment diagnosed as a stone in the kidney.

Stengel complained of sharp pains in his stomach before yesterday's game. Dr. Jacques Fischl, the New York Club's physician, ordered the manager to remain overnight in Lenox Hill hospital for observation.

Dr. Fischl, who said Stengel was suffering from a stone in the kidney, added that "it's not serious at all. He's resting comfortably while undergoing a series of tests."

Rapid Robin Still Can Win A Game

Chisox Are Felled By Tribe Veteran

NEW YORK, April 25—Like ham and eggs, Bob Feller and the Cleveland Indians have gone well together over a period of years. And if the early-season showing of Feller and his fellow-Tribesmen is any indication, the rest of the American League contenders had better start digging in.

The 32-year-old old veteran righthander, who came to the Indians in 1936 as a fuzzy-cheeked youngster with the ability to pitch a baseball with jet speed, won his second game of the campaign yesterday as he beat the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 2.

It was Cleveland's sixth victory and it kept them in first place in the junior circuit.

Time has taken some of the zest out of Feller's fast one. He relies mostly on a terrific curve and change up and his boundless knowledge of what batters can and can not hit.

Feller isn't even the number one pitcher on the team any more. He has taken a back seat to the likes of Bob Lemon and Early Wynn. But Robert keeps proving he is still reliable. Last season he chipped in with 16 wins, fair country pitching in any league.

And this season he may do as well, if not better.

* * *

HIS WIN OVER the pesky White Sox yesterday came about although he yielded ten hits, struck out only one man and walked three.

Chicago Southpaw Bob Cain gave up eight hits, but doubles by Luke Easter, Larry Doby and Merrill Combs drove in crucial runs.

Bob Kuzava of the Washington Senators became the second lefty to beat the Boston Red Sox in Fenway Park this season. Kuzava turned the Sox back, 7 to 5 in the southpaw slaughterhouse.

The Washington lefty was tagged for six hits, including homers by Clyde Vollmer, Bobby Doerr and Ted Williams (No. 3) which accounted for all of Boston's runs.

The victory was Washington's fifth in six starts and moved the Nats into second place behind the Indians.

The third place New York Yankees got another brilliant pitching effort from Ed Lopat. The southpaw "cutie," who set the Red Sox down with two hits in his first victory, blanked the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 0 with four hits for his second win.

The world champions did all their scoring in the first inning off little Bobby Shantz.

Detroit's game with the St. Louis Browns was rained out.

BOSTON'S BRAVES ended Brooklyn's five-game winning streak. Sid Gordon's homer with two on in the eighth gave the Braves a 7 to 4 win over the National League leaders.

Duke Snider and Carl Furillo connected for homers earlier in the contest off Max Surkont, who went all the way to record his second win for Boston.

The Philadelphia Phillies hammered Rookie Roger Bowman and five other Giant pitchers for 12 hits, including five doubles and a triple as they downed the New York Giants, 6 to 4.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Durocherm:n.

Bob Miller, who did not allow a Giant hit until the fifth, won his first game for the National League champs although Jim Konstanty had to come on to get the final out in the ninth inning with two Giants on base.

Lefty Max Lanier hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to a 3 to 1 win over the Cincinnati Reds. Star. Musial came out of his batting slump, getting three singles and a walk in four trips to the plate.

Wally Westlake, who is taking over Ralph Kiner's slugging duties at this stage of the season, hammered a three-run homer, his third of the year, to pace the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6 to 4 win over the Chicago Cubs.

The outfielder also contributed a sensational fielding play that stopped a Bruin scoring bid.

Vernon Law, who got help from Bill Werle in the eighth, was the Pirate winner.

Darby Advances Into Finals Of County Tourney

Darby Trojan baseball team advanced into the finals of the 1951 Pickaway County baseball tournament Tuesdaywith a 6-1 victory over Monroe in Ashville.

The victorious Trojan aggregation is slated to meet Ashville's Bronco baseballers at 3 p. m. Thursday in Ted Lewis Park for the tourney title.

If Ashville wins the Thursday test, it automatically will take the county championship title.

However, if Darby should take the game, the Thursday match will be considered the first in a three-game series, with the winner of the two games of the series earning the title.

Winner of the county tournament will be eligible to enter the 1951 district B tournament beginning May 4 in Columbus.

* * *

IN TUESDAY'S encounter, Monroe opened the fracas with a first-inning run, although Darby swatted in three markers in the inning for a 3-1 edge.

Holding the Monroe Indians scoreless throughout the remainder of the game, Darby pounded in single runs in the third, fifth and sixth innings for the 6-1 victory.

Big Charles Bayes of Darby was winning pitcher during the losers' bracket final test, allowing the Monroe team only two hits and fanning 12. Monroe's Hix was charged with the loss.

Bayes also was the top batsman in the contest, rapping out two singles for four trips to plate. Jim Brigner of Monroe collected a two-bagger, the only extra-base smash of the game.

Line score of Tuesday's tilt follows:

Monroe	100 000 0	— 1 2 3
Darby	301 011 x	— 6 7 3

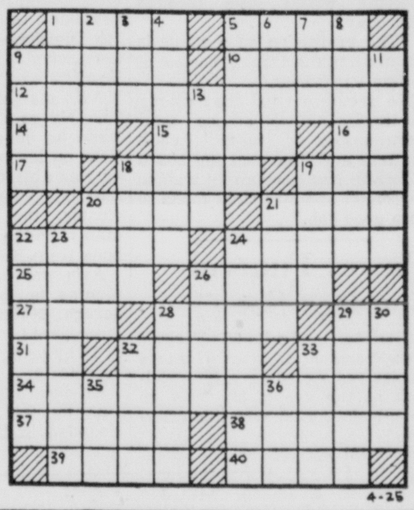
Yesterday's Answer



Bass Season Closes May 1 Until June 15; Ponds Are Unaffected

Pickaway County fishermen have only five more days left to tangle with Old Man Bass before he goes onto the protected list.

Bass season will close for six weeks at midnight Monday. The season will be opened again at midnight June 15.

Frogs and turtles also will be protected from fishermen for the same period.

However, the closed seasons apply only to streams and state-controlled lakes. Bass, frogs or turtles may be taken anytime from private ponds or state streams and lakes which have been "liberalized," such as Big Walnut Creek and Buckeye Lake.

Local fishermen also are advised that seining for bait also will be limited during the closed season on bass, frogs and turtles.

"Bait is not to be seined in water which is more than 12 feet wide for a distance of 50 yards below or above the point of seining," pointed out Game Protector Clarence Francis.

"THE SEINING restriction is imposed to protect the bass spawning beds, which otherwise might be ruined by the bait-seeker."

Seining hellgrammites from riffles also is forbidden during the closed bass season for the same reason, although both hellgrammites and crawfish may be handpicked anytime.

The seining restriction will be lifted at midnight June 14 to give the fishermen a full day in which to obtain bait for the opening of bass season, Francis said.

Meanwhile, groundhogs will remain on the protected list until June 1.

After the June 1 deadline has been reached, any amount of the animals may be taken as long as the hunter uses a valid hunting license.

"Hunters must have a hunting license for taking any wild animal or bird except foxes," Francis said. "A hunting license is needed for crow shooting as much as for rabbit-shooting."

City Water Softener Considered 'Luxury' By Manager

Other Items Needed Now, Leist Says

New Tower Said More Essential

A municipal soft water plant for Circleville is being termed a "luxury item" by Water Department Manager Ervin Leist.

Declaring that the chances of the city acquiring such a plant soon "are remote," Leist explained that there no funds on hand at present to build one.

'It would require starting a new debt," he said. "And it is my personal feeling that we should get the rest of our house in order before we start thinking about soft water."

By getting the rest of the house in order, Leist explained that he referred to other more necessary improvements to the water system.

* * *

"SOME OF THESE things have already been accomplished," he went on. "We have substituted a new dual drive pump at the pumping station for the steam driven arrangement we had before. We have taken steps to supplement our water supply. But there are still things to do that should come before a soft water plant."

One of them, Leist said, is the erection of an elevated water tower to provide additional fire protection for the city.

"There is some difference of opinion on that point," he said. "Some people think a soft water plant should come first.

"But from the standpoint of fire protection an elevated water tower comes first."

Another factor inhibiting installation of a soft water system is the raise in water rates that would accompany it, Leist pointed out.

He explained that the department's 1950 income was $68,103.85, of which $61,136.39 was spent for operating costs, capital expenses, sinking fund and incidentals, leaving roughly $7,000 which could be applied to debt service on an additional bond issue.

SINCE THE WATER system revenue is already mortgaged for $550,000, a bond issue for a soft water plant would require a second mortgage. Interest probably would be higher, and income correspondingly lower, making a water rate increase necessary.

"It would be better to wait until the first mortgage is paid off," said Leist. 'Then we possibly could get first mortgage revenue bonds for a soft water plant, and we might be able to operate without raising rates.

"If we had a soft water plant now operating costs naturally would be higher because of the cost of chemicals and so forth. That also would mean an increase in rates."

Leist said that the water department has purchased a "water analyzer" for use in testing the iron content of city water.

"First tests have shown the iron content of the water to be .5 parts per million," he said. "This is a little over the recommended amount. But it is not enough to be injurious from a health standpoint."

He said an inquiry has been sent to a commercial firm asking for prices and information on a method for holding iron in suspension in the water.

Chewing Tobacco Plant To Close In Middletown

MIDDLETOWN, April 25—P. Lorillard is closing its huge Middletown plug tobacco plant because the nation has become a country of "smokers" instead of "chewers."

Lorillard President H. A. Kent said the plant would be closed gradually between Aug. 1 and Oct. 1. Pipe tobacco and chewing tobacco operations will be consolidated at the company's Louisville, Ky., plant.

Halting of operations in Middletown will affect 500 Lorillard employes. At one time 1,100 persons were employed in the Ohio plant and at the turn of the century Middletown was the third largest city in the United States in the output of plug tobacco.

The plant will be closed under a four-point program which includes termination allowances for employes and an attempt to find a plant purchaser who will provide year-round employment.

The company will make extensive efforts to secure jobs for its employes and suspension of operations will be handled on a schedule aimed at avoiding unnecessary hardships for the community and employes.

Newark Jury Says Accusations Are Exaggerated

NEWARK, April 25—A Licking County grand jury concluded its two-week investigation of gambling yesterday, announcing that charges of gambling in Newark and Licking County "have been greatly exaggerated."

The seven-page report of the jury was placed in the court journals with a commendation from Judge Charles B. Holtsberry for "a difficult job well done."

The jury said in its report that it "deplored" the dissension caused by frequent changes in the Newark police department.

And, at the same time, the jury said that although raids have proved that the numbers racket has a hold in Newark, the jury contended that it had no hookup with 'big syndicates."

Father Jailed

NEW PHILADELPHIA, April 25—Floyd Goff, 23-year-old father charged with whipping his 14-month-old daughter because he "couldn't stand" to hear her cry, begins a 90-day sentence today in Columbus Workhouse.

Daylight Time Bill Is Killed

COLUMBUS, April 25 — Ohio cities going on Daylight Savings Time Sunday can do so with a clear conscience. It's apparently OK with the Ohio Legislature.

The house commerce and transportation committee last night killed a resolution authored by Rep. Arthur Milleson (D-Harrison) which sought to amend the Ohio constitution to ban any time except Eastern Standard Time in Ohio. The committee, by an 8 to 4 vote, tabled the measure.

Tripling Health Expenditures Is Urged By Agency

WASHINGTON, April 25—The government has proposed to erect an iron curtain against disease and the effects of atomic disaster by more than tripling the nation's public health expenditures.

The U. S. Public Health Service advanced a plan for dividing up the entire country into 1,228 local health service areas at a cost of approximately $250 million annually.

The plan, which would split this cost about equally between the federal, state and local governments, calls for nearly doubling the number of state and local public health workers. A minimum of 52,400 fulltime workers is suggested.

The heart of the plan involves setting up 1,228 public health "units" or centers to supervise each area and to coordinate work of the local hospitals and health departments. This would be done by a pooling of manpower, equipment and facilities, and by unifying hospital and health department administration wherever practical.

Condemned Man Loses Appeal

COLUMBUS, April 25—The Ohio supreme court late yesterday denied a postponement of the electrocution of Morzell Eakins, 34-year-old Cincinnatian.

He is scheduled to die Friday in the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair for the shooting of his common-law wife, Marguerite Jordan, April 6, 1950. He had asked for time to appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Ex-Husbands Hear Edict Of Local Court

Kenneth Frederick Cox has been found guilty of contempt of court by Judge William D. Radcliff in Pickaway County common pleas court for failing to make support payments to his former wife, Gladys Louise Cox.

Judge Radcliff deferred imposition of sentence, ordered Cox to pay $10 a week up to June 2. From that date to Sept. 1 he is to pay $15 a week, the amount dropping again to $10 after Sept. 8.

Also in common pleas court, Carl W. Olney has been ordered to pay $20 a week temporary alimony to Maxine Olney. The sum is to be paid as long as the man earns overtime money. If he earns no overtime pay, the alimony drops to $16 a week. The couple has two children.

'Old Soldier' Of 18 Back In U.S. Army

FT. DEVENS, Mass., April 25—An "old soldier" of 18 was back in the Army today.

Pvt. James J. Avis of Hartford, Conn., began the long journey back to his old outfit, the 7th Division, after enlisting for the second time—and his first legal "hitch."

Avis startled the men at the Ft. Devens reception center when he began pinning decorations on his new GI togs. At 18, he was able to sport the Bronze Star, the Purple Heart with one cluster, the Combat Infantryman's Badge and service ribbons from Korea.

Avis was discharged three months ago because he was underage. He had served nearly three years, enlisting at the age of 15 by using his brother's birth certificate.

He eventually landed in Korea with the 7th Division and was wounded in the leg by a Communist bullet near Seoul. He returned to the lines and won the Bronze Star and a cluster to his Purple Heart when he rescued his wounded lieutenant during action in the Chosin reservoir are in North Korea.

Avis enlisted the second time with the specification that he would be assigned to the 7th again. The Army said he will have his way.
